Charity Distributions Reported at Christmas Dinner

Foothills Corvette's Christmas party was held Dec. 13 at Hiddenite Center. A catered meal consisted of either steak or chicken and wonderful desserts.

Individual tables were decorated by Claudette Icenhour, Jacque Meadows, Betty Lovette, Derry Hendrix, Twyla Price, and Wanda Harrington, using their own dishes and decorative items. Each was different, and it made for great ambience. As one member commented, it looked like an upscale restaurant in New York.

Following the meal, Jacque Meadows reported on the families helped in Alexander County. One was a lady living on a very limited income, who needed assistance with her power bill and medications. The remainder of the money bought sleepers and diapers for the pregnancy crises center in that county.

Assistance in Wilkes was distributed among three families. One was a handicapped couple who received clothing, coats, and gloves. Another was a family whose father had lost his job due to a heart attack. They were given clothing, toys for the children, and gas money for doctor visits. The last family has two autistic children who received toys and clothing. Club members can be proud of themselves for doing good in their communities.

Gag gifts were exchanged and Keith Ball provided music for entertainment and dancing.

Club Participates in Wilkes and Alexander Christmas Parades

Even though temperature was only in the mid-30s, 13 members lined up on a cold, damp day to ride in Wilkes County's Christmas parade. Five of them journeyed on to Taylorsville to join others and participate there later the same afternoon.
